STRUGGLING FOR THEIR LIVES.

SEYMOUR IN 8 MILES OF TIEN-TSIN.

A Courier Left Him Monday and Then It Appeared Impossible for Them to Hold Out More Than Two Days—Sick, Hungry and Thirsty They Have Battled for Twelve Days Against Both Boxers and Imperial Troops in a Few Miles of Help. British and Americans Entered Tien-Tsin Together.

By Wire to the Telegram.

Cheefu, June 27—A message from Taku reports that a courier from Seymour arrived at Tien-Tsin Monday evening. He left Seymour's force eight miles east of Tien-Tsin, terribly harrassed by the Chinese, believing then that they could hold out only about two days more. The courier said that the casualties had been 68 killed and 200 wounded. The force never reached Pekin, and neither the foreign ministers nor the missionaries are with him. The force was completely exhausted, having been fighting continuously for twelve days. Many of the troops are sick. Both the Boxers and the Imperial troops are fighting them. The supplies were almost exhausted and the marines were suffering for both food and water.

MINISTERS WENT TOWARDS CHANG YAI.

Paris, June 27.—The French consul at Shanghai reports that the foreign ministers left Pekin by the north gate under a Chinese escort and started towards Chang Yai Wau, on the way to the coast.

TUAN'S NEW CAPITAL.

Shanghai, June 27 —It is reported that Prince Tuan has sent all legations to Sian Fu under an escort, and that this will be the new capitol if the allies occupy Pekin.

BRITISH AND AMERICANS NECK AND NECK.

London, June 27.—A Cheefoo dispatch says the fight of the allied forces against the combined forces of Chinese and Boxers, when Tien-Tsin was reached, began at daybreak. A hundred and fifty Americans were among the 2,000 international troops. The Chinese soon broke under the heavy shelling, then the arsenal was attacked and the guns gradually silenced. The fight lasted till noon, when it was practically over. Then there was a keen friendly rivalry as to who should have the honor of first entering the city. This resulted in the Americans and British going in front neck and neck, with the others closely following.

EUROPEANS REPORTED SAFE.

London, June 27—The British consul at Amoy telegraphs this morning that the Europeans at Pekin are reported safe.

6,000 MORE GERMANS.

Berlin, June 27.—The government has decided to increase its force in China by probably 6,000 men.

FRESH OUTBREAKS EMINENT.

London, June 27, 3:45 a. m.—A fresh phase of the ebullition in China is the probability of immediate breaks in the great southern provincial centers. The populace here is daily assuming a more hostile attitude towards foreigners, and the latter perceive symptoms a general rising, especially at Nan King, where, according to a dispatch to The Daily Express, dated yesterday, Kang Wu, one of the most truculent enemies of foreigners, has arrived by the way of the grand canal, armed with full powers from the Empress to deal with the southern provinces. The friendly attitude of Viceroy Liu Kun Yih towards foreigners has brought him into disgrace with Prince Tuan, president of the Tsung Li Yamen (Foreign Office). The unrest at Canton is described by a dispatch from that city to The Daily Telegraph dated Monday, via Hong Kong yesterday, saying: "It is feared that we are on the eve of a scene of bloodshed and anarchy in the two Quangs only paralleled during Tai-Ping rebellion. The signs of a murderous rising are so manifest that wealthy Chinese are hurrying from Canton and vicinity, taking their wives, families and valuables

"Li Hung Chang has again been peremptorily ordered to Pekin. His enemies declare that they will murder him before he can reach there. His presence alone restrains the revolutionary elements here. His departure will let loose the 'black flags' and 'red girdles'. Knowing this, Li's trusted officers are sending their families to Hong Kong.

"The Viceroy himself trusts the Americans in this crisis. He says they alone want no territory, and he places himself largely—almost reservedly—in their hands. At an important conference today he reiterated this statement.

"All the missionaries have been notified of their imminent peril through confidential runners. They are leaving Canton hurriedly, and only a few are now here.

"Commander McLean, of the United States steamship Don Juan de Austria, is the first here to protect foreign interests. He is capable and energetic and is re-enforced by Her Majesty's steamship Redpole. Two hundred foreign residents at Shameen are armed.

"The Canton population reaches 2,000,000 in addition to 250,000 living on junks and flat boats. Most of these people are disaffected and incendiary proclamations are increasing the number of the virulent."

THE ENTRY INTO TIEN-TSIN.

Americans and British Silence the Guns of the Arsenal and Lead the Way—Big Forces of Japanese Landing at Taku.

Copywrighted, 1900, by Associated Press.

Che Fu, June 26—The Americans and British entered Tien-Tsin first, silencing the guns of the arsenal and breaking through the Chinese lines. The foreigners were close behind. The Russians lost four killed and thirty wounded. The losses of the other nationalities were small. Admiral Seymour's force is about ten miles from Tien-Tsin. It is surrounded by Chinese troops and Boxers and hampered by the presence of sick and wounded. It is reported that all foreigners were sent from Pekin with a weak Chinese guard, and it is assumed that they are with Admiral Seymour. One thousand Japanese are landed at Taku, and 2,000 more are expected tomorrow when a battalion of French is also due. The foreign admiral, have appointed Captain Wise, commander of the Monacacy to be commandant at Tong Ku. The Netherlands cruiser has left Java for Che Fu.

HOW BUSINESS HAS INCREASED.

The Freight Receipts of the Southern Railway as an Index to the City's Growth.

Few people realize the enormous amount of business done by the Southern Railway Company at this place. On June 1st, 1899, the business of the Atlantic & Yadkin was consolidated with the Southern, and during the twelve months that have elapsed since that time the business has constantly increased. The Southern now handles more freight for Grensboro than was ever handled before by both roads. In conversation with the Telegram today Mr. W. E. Coffin, the company's agent, stated that already during the present month the amount of freight handled for Greensboro concerns was several thousand dollars in excess of the business of last June.

This is a very encouraging condition of affairs, as it shows that Greensboro has neither turned backward nor slackened her pace in the march of progress. It can but be gratifying to every person interested in the material welfare of the city.

Guesses at Greensboro's population are even coming from out of town. Send 'em on.

CHEERED WHITE SUPREMACY.

PUNCTUATED MR DOUGLAS' SPEECH.

The Crowd Was too Hungry for Music and for Aycock--The Speeches of Messrs. McRary and Douglas, in Which the Republican Party is Held Up as the Special Guardian of the Poor White Man--Some Facts That Were Omitted--Their Ovation.

Mr. J. R. McRary, of Lexington, one of the Republican electors at large, and Mr. R. D Douglas, of this city, spoke to a good crowd at Proximity last night. Before the speakers arrived the Proximity Band, a most excellent musical organization, gathered in front of the company store and rendered some splendid music. This drew out a large crowd of people, the majority of whom remained to hear the speaking.

Mr. Carl Wheeler introduced Mr McRary, announcing that he would be followed by Mr. Douglas. Mr. McRary is apparently a very nice, harmless sort of young man, who is only doing the bidding of the bosses.

He bagan his labored effort of more than an hour by announcing that he did not come to Greensboro to make a speech, but said he had been sent out to Proximity by Mr. Holton and Mr. Hyams. (He failed to state whether Abe Middleton had anything to do with making the appointment.) Before proceeding further Mr. McRary assured his hearers that he would tell them nothing but the truth. This statement was probably made because the crowd knew he was a Republican speaker, and not on account of any disposition on the part of his audience to mistrust him personally.

The speaker was generous enough to say that he would not attempt to argue the unconstitutionality of the amendment, contenting himself by quoting what some of the alleged great constitutional lawyers have said on the subject. In the excitement of the moment he failed to mention janus-faced Marion Butler among the expounders of the constitution.

When Mr. McRary struck the poll-tax provision in the amendment be warmed up to his subject, and if he could have only implanted his own overwrought feelings in the hearts of his hearers the whole hill would have been shaken by the reverberations of wild applause. It was a heartrending picture he drew of the poor but honest white man who would be deprived of his vote on account of his inability to pay his poll tax He neglected (unintentionally, of course, for he was under a pledge to tell the truth,) to state that the law does not require a man to pay his poll tax when he is impoverished to such an extent that he is unable to do so. He also neglected to state that tens of thousands of negroes who never pay any poll tax would not be allowed to vote, no matter if they could read and write.

But Mr. McRary reached the climax when he began to talk of the educational test. According to his statement, about three-fourths of the white voters will be disfranchised, for the simple reason that few men can readily read and write any section of the constitution of North Carolina. He declared the constitution to be full of hard words to pronounce and tough legal phrases, such as "Perpetuities and monopolies are contrary to the genius of a free State." He further declared that few people in this section of the country have much of either brains or money. The people of North Carolina, taken as a whole, are known to be poor, but Mr. McRary's discovery that they are lacking in intelligence is indeed sad

In illustrating the love of a mother for her boy, the speaker found it necessary to make a comparison between the love of a mother for her child and the love of a cow for her calf, the attachment of a hen for her brood of young, and the affection of a dog for her puppies. The old Confederate soldier was spoken of as "bearing the wright of centuries on his back."

When the speaker had touched lightly on the negro question (for there was one negro in the audience) and come back to the poll tax provision and the educational test, drawing what was termed a harrowing picture of conditions as they will exist if the amendment is adopted, persons in the audience began yelling for a change and more band music, the latter of which apparently had more attractions for the crowd. After reciting a few lines of patriotic poetry Mr. McRary's flow of language suddenly ceased.

When the platform had been yielded to Mr. Douglas he announced that he would detain the crowd but a short while, but the crowd detained him long enough to hear some more music by the band. After the band had concluded, Mr. Douglas opened his speech by saying that he had no ill will for the rank and file of the Democratic party, but he wished to hold up the leaders to public gaze. He then virtually characterized Democrats generally as being imbeciles by saying they allowed the party leaders to do their thinking, charging the general run of Democrats with being unable to think and act for themselves.

Before he had proceeded far with his speech some one called for three cheers for Aycock and the white men of North Carolina, and it is not known how much longer Mr. Douglas held the crowd together.

GRAVE CHARGES AGAINST RUSSIA.

Planning to Break the Concert so as to Take Possession of Pekin Independently.

Che Fu, June 26.—The officers of the British first-class cruiser Terrible, assert that discord exists between the Russians and Anglo-Americans and they say they believe the Russians are planning to break the concert and take possession of Pekin independently. They assert that Vice Admiral Seymour's command lacked unison, the foreigners sulking because they were under British leadership.

They bitterly denounce the Russian general's conduct as uncivilized and barbarous, and charge that the slaughter of peaceful Chinamen at Taku has aroused the otherwise passive natives against the foreigners.

IN HONOR OF MR. AND MRS. JONES.

A Reception at High Point—A Tacky Party—A Convert Made by Claude Kitchin. An At-Home.

Correspondence of the Telegram.

High Point, June 27.—Mr. Luther Jones, of this city, and Miss Florence May White, of Richmond, who were married at the home of the bride yesterday, arrived here last evening. A reception was tendered the young couple at the home of the groom, to which members of the family and a few friends were invited. Mr. Jones has won a jewel and his many friends here and elsewhere will wish for him and his fair young bride a happy and prosperous career. Mr. and Mrs. Jones were accompanied here by Mrs. E. D. Steele, of this place, a sister of the groom.

Messrs. E. C. Lassiter, W. A. Underwood and M. O. Hammond, of Asheboro, were here yesterday.

Miss Ring, of Elkin, is visiting relatives in the city.

Mayor Cox had quite a lengthy court last night. The first on the docket was a complaint against several young men for coming to blows on account of a misunderstanding. The second was for retailing liquor. One Geo. Clinton was the accused. He was sent to jail in default of bond. The third and last case that occupied the attention of the Mayor was for assault and battery on a negro girl. Jim Cain was the negro charged with the offence. He was fined and cautioned not to appear before His Honor again, or he would be dealt with as his frequent visits demand.

A tacky party was given last night at the home of the Misses Kirkman, on North Main street. Several young people were in attendance. They donned tackey uniforms and went in a body to the house. As they passed the main thoroughfare it was a sight to behold—tackey sure enough! We take off our hats to them and award them the laurels.

Great is the arm of Democracy. The speech of Mr. Claude Kitchin Monday night has already made a convert that we know of.

Misses Hattie and Mamie Sechrest returned last night from a visit to friends in Greensboro.

Miss Clara Hamner was at home to a number of friends last night, the occasion being her birthday. From nine to eleven o'clock the young people enjoyed themselves as only young people can on such occasions. Everything was made ready for their enjoyment by the charming hostess. Scores of Japanese lanterns ornamented the beautiful lawn, and their soft, mellow light shone out on youth and beauty. All was fair and lovely. A select orchestra furnished music for the dance, which was a pleasant feature of the occasion. Dainty refreshments were served. Our young people always enjoy themselves at this hospitable home. Those present were: Misses Elizabeth Gurley, Mabel Hall, Salisbury; Lizzie Bowne, Kentucky; Floy Richardson, Annie Wheeler, Constance Charles; Mina Alexander, Cora Pitts, Ella Benton, Katherine Smith, Sallie Turner, Greensboro; Nettie Tate; Messrs. Gui Field, Clyde Curlee, Charles Hauser, L. H. Cartland, Robert Slaughter, H. A. Millis, Claude Barbee, C. M. Crawford, Wescott Roberson, A. E. Frazier, A. E. Barns, Dr. McAnally, Wm. Jones, Frank Armfield, Frank Ramsey, Avery Sapp and W. T. Whitten.

Tom Sharkey Knocked Out.

Coney Island, June 26—For the first time in his pugulistic career Tom Sharkey went down to decisive defeat tonight in the historic arena of the Seaside Athletic Club, and big Gus Ruhlin, the Ohio pugulist, was his conqueor. It was a clean knock-out after 15 rounds of fighting that made a memorable ring battle. Save in the matter of agressiveness, Ruhlin led from the face-off in every feature of the game, and at all times had the fight well in hand.

Experts estimate that the crop of tobacco grown around Tallahassee will yield 1,300 pounds an acre. The tobacco grown is of the Sumatra variety, and is very fine. A stalk eight feet long was recently placed on exhibition at the Tallahassee National Bank. The stalk contained 32 leaves, and not a bug-hole could be found on any one of them.

Preparing to Put Some Spice in the Campaign—Crop Report Better Than Expected—Auditor After the Corporations—Mr. and Mrs. Batchelor's Half-Century Celebration.

Special Correspondence of the Telegram.

Raleigh, June 27.—The crop and weather report for the State is on the whole much better than expected. There were for the seven days ending Monday night three fair days in the eastern half of the State, but only one in the western half. In the latter section farmers are discouraged because of grassy crops and damage to shocked wheat by sprouting. The average rainfall was three inches, or two inches more than the normal. Fortunately, as a general rule, the showers were not accompanied by high winds or hail, and the damage by excessive rains was confined to limited areas over which crops were somewhat beaten down, and hillsides washed, while in the west the streams have been high and lowlands submerged with damage to corn. The temperature was continuously below normal, the deficiency averaging 7 degrees daily. Warm, dry weather with sunshine is now needed. Bnt over by far the larger portion of the State the rainfall was extremely beneficial. The ground was thoroughly soaked and placed in excellent condition for working as soon as the weather will permit; crops which were all well cultivated have been invigorated; they are now in good condition and growing rapidly, though still somewhat behind the average in size for the season. The wheat harvest has been delayed in the extreme west. Much of the wheat crop has been safely housed. Threshing has begun on a small scale. Spring oats have improved. Cotton continued to make slow growth on account of cool weather; much of it turned yellow; some fields have become very grassy, and complaints of damage by lice are very numerous. Corn has greatly improved. Tobacco is growing fast and no complaints of damage to this crop were received. The early crop of hay was short. Early peaches and apples are ripe; the prospect for grapes is especially fine.

The State Auditor has sent to the sheriffs the following: "Pursuant to the requirements of Section 11 of the Machinery Act, I hand you herewith a report of holders of stock in private business corporations residing in your county. This list is compiled from reports made to this department by various business corporations in the State under the provisions of the section of the Machinery Act above referred to. The list is not offered nor can it be accepted as giving full and accurate information, but it is the best that could be compiled from data at the command of this office. The reports made by many of the corporations do not state the value of their stock; others indicate contingent values, and it may be remarked that the values given in the list sent you cannot generally be regarded as a proper basis for taxation. It is known that many corporations have made no report at all, and, therefore, it will easily occur to you that it has been impossible for this department to offer you such full and complete information as the general provision of the law might require."

Last evening there was a social event here of a marked rarity. This was the "golden wedding" of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Batchelor, the celebration of half a century of married life. The assemblage was a representative one, and the gifts numerous and beautiful. Mr. Batchelor is a widely known lawyer and was for four years attorney general.

The populists are arranging, they say, for a lively campaign. R. B. Davis, their secretary, says up to this date there has been very little "ginger" in their campaign. Now they have sixteen young women addressing envelopes, circulars, etc., and are flooding the State with them. Then, too, they are going to turn "Cyclone" Davis of Texas, loose on the State next month as a "stumper." They will also have Congressman J. D. Kelly, of South Dakota, to aid them.

A carload of supplies for the State Guard has been received at the State arsenal for the United States, including 400 tents, 800 blouses, 600 campaign hats, 800 pairs trousers, 300 rubber pouches, etc. A great many more articles are to come.

Military men believe congress will be convoked and that more volunteers will be raised for service in China. It will be no sort of trouble to raise a quarter of a million men in 30 days. There will never be any more State volunteers as in 1898. That was not a good system and has been abolished.

So far this year the State veterinarian has not had a report of any outbreak of splenic fever among cattle in North Carolina. Last year there were many outbreaks.

The following Raleigh attorneys have gone to Asheville to attend the annual meeting of the State Bar Association: Thomas S. Kenon, James E. Sheppard, R. O. Burton and F. H. Busbee.

The State has made out at New York a strong case against the Western Union Telegraph Company in the assessment matter. The company claims that its property in this State is only wires, good will and business; that it owns no real estate or buildings, and that its property here is worth only $300,000. The State says its property in the State, on the basis of its stock, is worth at least $1,500,000.

The Tifton (Ga.) Gazette says: A new county ten or fifteen miles square, with Tifton as the centre, would be one of the wealthiest and most prosperous in the State, outside those embracing the large cities. Its citizens could attend to their legal business without inconvenience or loss of time, and the people of the other sections of the county would not have to pay a share of the expenses of the litigation of this district.

An amonia tank exploded at an ice factory at Sanford, Fla., a few days ago, letting loose two hundred gallons of amonia. All vegetation which the amonia reached was covered with frost.

THE SENTIMENT IN NEW YORK.

M'KINLEY, ANTI-M'KINLEY, BRYAN.

The Ranks of the First are Rapidly Thinning to Recruit the Second and the Third. No Concern About the Financial Question—Trusts are What People are Talking About.

S. H. Lewis, in Atlanta Journal.

Investigation showed three sorts of votes, which is one more than existed four years ago. In 1896, there were Bryan votes and McKinley votes in New York. Now, as was stated in a former letter, there are Bryan votes, McKinley votes, and anti-McKinley votes. This last is the growing vote, and each day sees it fatten and swell at the expense of the Republicans. The McKinley vote is becoming decisively lean and haggard and pale in the face because of the bleeding it receives to augment and redden the veins of anti-McKinley contingent. The last will vote for Bryan in voting against McKinley. It's not that they love Bryan more, but McKinley less. These anti-McKinleyites hate and fear the present administration to a degree not dreamed of by any normal Democrat.

As I moved among the McKinley malcontents with intent to discover their objections to McKinley, when I dug about the roots of their obvious hatred of the administration, I discovered sundry matters. The Germans, French, Austrians and Italians turn from McKinley because of militarism. They are against an army, or an army increase, rather. They look on it as the beginning of what will end in that system of compulsory enlistment in the army from which they fled.

Thousands of native Americans, men of best and purest American stock, and who voted for McKinley, are now his most acred and determined foes, because of imperialism. I found no end of these. They regard our psesent antics in the Orient as little less than treason to the very spirit of American institutions as founded by our fathers.

Of all issues, so-called, however, it was plain that the subject of trusts excited widest concern. This was peculiarly true of young men of ambition and force.

"Why," as one man said to me, "Trusts in their last legitimate expression shut the final door on anything like individual success. The last that a man can get out of it is to work all his life for wages. It, the trust system, sentences him to be a servant all his days. No matter how good you may become at whatever art or trade you follow, you can never be an employer—never be anything but one of the employed. It is a killer to individual independence, and puts shackles on one's spirit of enterprise. It's the feudal system restored; or the padrone peon system of Mexico. The worst feature of the trust system as I look at it, isn't the elevation of prices of goods; the worst feature of trusts is that they lower the standard of manhood."

As this man talked, so do nine of ten of the young men of New York, not born to ease and riches, feel. They are against trusts, and they look on the Republican party and McKinley as the promoters and champions of trusts. For which reason, avoiding McKinley, they will vote for Bryan.

My search for facts, confirmed in twenty fashions, that the Democracy and Bryan are to carry this state. It is in the air, and will soon gain general advertisement by being in the general mouth. The state taken as a whole is no longer afraid of silver nor any platform of it; the state is afraid of trusts, militarism and imperialism. Also, it is aroused over the frauds and venal iniquities which have marched through the present administration toe on heel, one pressing on another in a very lockstep of corruption.

To add to the above, and in favor of the Democracy, is the certainty of Platt's intended treason to McKinley which each sun makes more plain. The knife is a terrible weapon of politics in a machine state like New York. Platt can, if he will, drive it to the heart of full 50,000 votes which had else lived and voted for McKinley. And fear not but he'll do it. Revenge for the senate taking off Quay; his own safety in the future; and his natural and jealous resentment of the apoplectic Hanna in that chair of party centre which he himself should fill, will set Platt to the knife this fall with as eager a heart, and as warm a grace as ever a Borgia went a-poisoning with. This state, silver in or silver out of the platform, will go for Bryan in November, and so on every hilltop of politics say a score of signs and omens.

WANTS AN ARMY OF 100,000.

The Chinese Boast of an Army of 400,000 Men—A Big Naval Demonstration Would Have a Wholesome Effect.

Copyrighted 1900 by the Associated Press.

Che Fu, Tuesday, June 26.—The foreigners everywhere are urging the immediate concentration of an army of 100,000 men, or atleast 50,000 men, for an advance on Pekin. Many persons familiar with the Chinese character think the foreign ministers and Vice-Admiral Seymour are held as hostages for good terms of settlement. They also believe the whole Chinese army is joining in the movement under the leadership of Tung Fuh Siang, who crushed the Mohammedan rebellion. Recently he was nominally degraded for the purpose of organizing an anti-foreign uprising quietly.

It is estimated that about 65,000 soldiers, well armed, but poorly disciplined, are south of Pekin and Tien-Tsin. The Chinese officers boast that they have 400,000 soldiers. Admiral Seymour's force carried a week's rations and the men had an average of 150 rounds of ammunition. The Russian conduct at Taku, according to the other officers, inflamed the natives The Russians are reported to have been shooting the Chinese indiscriminately and driving away the peaceful Chinese who would have procured transportation and provisions, and of looting the town. A great naval demonstration at all the treaty ports is also said to be desirable in order to influence the wavering Chinese merchants who are friendly to foreigners.

The masses are becoming excited at the reports of their countrymen's successes against the Powers. Merchantmen arriving here report that the Boxers are drilling in the streets of New Chwang, and that when the officials inspected the soldiers with the view of suppressing the Boxers, they found the soldiers had sold their rifles and equipments to the Boxers.

The military school at Moukden is reported to have been destroyed. The British consul at Foo Chow is asking for warships. The arrival of the British first-class cruiser Terrible and two Japanese cruisers at Che Fu today relieved the strained relations. An outbreak was reported last night, the sailors slept on their arms and the foreigners prepared to take refuge on the ships.

Commander Taussig, of the Yorktown, requested the commander of the fort to cease his diplomatic manoevres with cannon and notified him that if Chinese troops were sent to the city ostensibly to repress the Boxers, Americans would be landed.

There are about 150 American and British missionaries at Che Fu. They are short of money and clothes, having left their stations hastily.

United States Consul John Fowler's ship is expected to bring fifty missionaries and French priests from the mouth of Yellow river, whither they are flocking from the interior. The commander of the Chinese cruiser Hei Hai, at Chen Chow, offered Mr. Fowler to go to the relief of the missionaries at Yang Che Kiang, if assured of protection It is reported that the Russians are moving 30,000 men towards New Chwang.

THE WEST.

It Has Been Discovered a Great Many Times.

One is hardly prepared for the brightness of E. Hough's essay in the February Century by the ponderous title, "The West, and Certain Literary Discoveries; or, How Fiction May Be Stranger than Truth." In this paper, the author of "The Story of the Cowboy," says: "We observe the statement that Columbus discovered America to be misleading. The South was never discovered until after the war. The East has never been discovered at all. The West has been discovered by a great many persons—by what a train of Leif Ericsons, nay, of Marco Polos! Yet you shall not change this thing! There are many who would rather read Marco Polo than Macaulay."

Let us suppose that one of our literary discoverers of the West holds dispassionate conversation with one of the natives whom he has, as it were, detected in the act of living in the new-found land. The former finds occasion to remark:

"Of course the West owes to the East its best principles of living, the moral character of the old Puritans."

"Not in the least," replies the other. "The West was settled from the South as much as or more than from the North, so far as an American population is concerned. Its people were descendants of the Cavaliers as well as of the Roundheads."

"You do not catch my thought in its entirety. I mean to say that I find in the Western type a certain crudeness, a sort of—in fact, a sort of je ne sais quoi!"

"It is true. Upon the souls of those men you see the hall-mark of the land."

"Yet the East sent a great many men to the West. Your vaunted West is built of Eastern blood, at least in part."

"True. We kept the best of your young men, and sent the others back to you. Yet those whom we kept have not changed the West. The West has change them."

"But the barrenness of your life in gentler ways—I mean to say that in your culture, your art—"

"Where has ever been seen art more gentle, yet more virile, more unsupported and unasking?"

"True, we should perhaps grant you time."

"Grant us no time. We have stolen a generation of time."

"Then, after all, your boasted West is changing, it is going. We"—triumphantly—"have discovered that."

"Yes. The West has known and wept over these changes for a score of years."

"And your cow-boy is gone."

"He is at Washington."

"And your plainsman is no more."

"He is raising a section of wheat."

"And your prospector—"

"Is in the Klondike, founding a family tree."

"And all your wild men are coming to be shorn."

"Friend, where have you slept these years?"

"Perhaps, then, a new day is, after all, dawning in the West."

"Friend, it is already noon."

A Bishop's Advice.

In presenting prizes at the High School for Girls, Terrace, the other day, the Bishop of London remarked that he was much struck by the answers he received when he put to ladies of wealth education and position the question, "What would you do for a living if your wealth were swept away?" Some—and there were very many—said they would "go on the stage;" apparently almost every other young woman thought she was a born actress. Others said they would be singers or hospital nurses. Generally the answer was, "Oh, I suppose I should have to become a general servant: and a very bad one I should be." The Bishop very wisely remarked that there ought to be some definite purpose animating the studies and work of all girls.

CANCER IS NOT INCURABLE

Time was when Cancer was considered as incurable as leprosy. Physicians and friends could give little relief or encouragement to one afflicted with this terrible disease. Even now doctors know of no remedy for this fearful malady; while admitting it to be a blood disease, they still insist that there is no hope outside of a surgical operation, and advise you to have the Cancer cut out, but at the same time cannot assure you that it will not return. You may cut or draw out the sore, but another will come in its place, for the disease is in the blood—is deep-seated and destructive, and beyond the reach of the surgeon's knife or caustic, flesh-destroying plasters. The blood must be purified and strengthened, the system relieved of all poisonous, effete matter before the Cancer sore will heal.

S. S. S. is the only medicine that can overcome this powerful and contaminating poison and force it out of the blood. It builds up and invigorates the old, and supplies new, rich, life-giving blood. S. S. S. is a purely vegetable remedy; no mineral can be found in it; the roots and herbs from which it is made contain powerful purifying properties that act directly upon the blood system and make a safe and permanent cure of Cancer. It has cured thousands, why not you?

Cancer is not always inherited; your family may be free from any taint, yet your blood may become so polluted that a severe and stubborn form of the disease may develop from a sore or ulcer on your tongue or other part of your body; a slight bruise or hurt, a little pimple on the eyelid, lip or nose, a small lump on the jaw or breast, a harmless looking wart or mole, and other causes so insignificant as to attract little or no attention. If you have an obstinate sore, don't rely upon salves or ointments to cure it—begin with S. S. S. at once; it will cleanse your blood and prevent the formation of cancerous cells.

Impure Blood Invites Disease.

Mrs. R. Shirer, La Plata, Mo., writes: "A small pimple came on my jaw about one inch below the ear on the left side of my face. At first it gave me no trouble, and I did not think it was anything serious until the jaw began to swell and became much inflamed. At the same time the sore began to spread and eat into the flesh, and gave me intense pain. I tried everything I could hear of, but nothing did me any good. I then began the use of S. S. S., and after taking several bottles the Cancer healed, and there is now no sign of the disease. This was two years ago, and I am still enjoying perfect health."

Send for our special book on Cancer; it contains much information that will interest you; it is free.

Write our physicians about your case, and for any advice or information wanted; they have made a life study of Cancer and all blood diseases. We make no charge whatever for this.

GUNBOAT POLICY.

It is doubtless a source of great satisfaction to Japan that she can send troops to China along with the leading powers, for a short time ago she was in no better shape than China. But when the black-haired heathen heard the blast of Western civilization they awoke with a start, and marched right along with civilization. They are in some respects a great people.—Charlotte Observer.

It ought to be, also, a source of great satisfaction to North Carolinians that an honored citizen of this State sent that blast of Western civilization into the black-haired kingdom. In 1853 Commodore Perry made his famous expedition to Japan, forcing that country open to Western civilization, by compelling the government, on March 1, 1854, to sign its first foreign treaty, extending rights to foreigners. That expedition was planned and carried out by Governor Graham of North Carolina, then Secretary of the Navy under Fillmore. It might be of interest, also, to our friends who have kicked against this government securing its rights in China, that Commodore Perry forced his treaty upon the Japanese by a method which was in that day facetiously termed "Gunboat policy."

About the most serious allegation against trusts is that made by Alfred Henry Lewis in a clipping published elsewhere in this paper. It is that they destroy individual aspiration, take from the young men the hope of ever being more than underlings. It is noticeable that this is the identical objection made to socialism, that is, that it destroys individual effort and enterprise, the only absolute progressive principle of civilization. This in turn sustains the contention that has been made to the effect that trusts are largely similar in principle to socialism, trusts being socialism in the hands of private persons, while state socialism is simply the same thing in the hands of society. This is the assertion from which socialists derive great encouragement, saying that when the people find out this fact they will force the society into socialism.

In spite of anything that may be said by professional anti-expansionists the American people will approve of the determination by the Administration to protect American interests in China and to send any number of men necessary to accomplish that object.—Newberne Journal.

The position taken by even rank anti-expansion papers on the action of the President in taking steps to protect the life and property of Americans in China, after a demonstration of the Chinese government's utter failure to do so, has been surprising. Some papers say that the President has "declared war on China," and such tommy-rot as that. If the American government were to refuse or even hesitate to protect its citizens in a time like that now existing in China, it would be time for it to announce a retirement from business.

For Vice-President—An able Democrat, whose position was not in doubt in 1896, who can add strength to the Democratic ticket, and who stands for the measures of which Bryan is the embodiment.—News and Observer.

This, we fear. is the spirit that will make impossible even a seeming compromise, a compromise which is absolutely necessary to secure a vote that will cause the success of the ticket. A man whose position was not in doubt in 1896 and who yet stands for the measures embodied by Mr. Bryan, means a rabid 16 to 1-er, the very thing he must not be, if the party cares to conciliate that large class which can elect the ticket this year, as they defeated it in 1896.

We are assured by those who are in a position to know that the construction of a street railway in Greensboro is almost an absolute certainty of the immediate future. The Mayor has prepared a statement for those interested in the Guilford Power Company which shows the thriving business condition of Greensboro. The parties report that they are highly pleased with the showing. This is very gratifying, and we shall yet live up to a fulfillment of our promise, that the visitors to the next commencement of the State Normal and Industrial College shall be whisked out to the College on a "trolley."

It will be recollected that a few days ago our Raleigh correspondent said that the Seaboard Air Line had not given up the idea of getting into Greensboro, and that some fine day this hope would be consumated. It is to be hoped that it will. The entrance of another line into this city is the only thing lacking to make Greensboro, as it should be, the first railroad point in this section of the country.

That the Don Juan de Austria is likely to be doing active service for the American boys in a short while will likely not be welcome news to the grandiloquent Spaniard from whom she was captured.

Mr. McRary, the Republican Elector-at-Large who spoke at Proximity last night, has evidently gotten the Confederate soldier mixed up in his head with the "Man With the Hoe."

What Mr. Dooley does for the modesty of the Republican vice-presidential nominee might safely be called a plenty.

The heavy rains of the past few days have also been playing havoc with the crops in North Alabama. It has rained every day this month in this section. All the streams are swollen and the railroads cannot make schedule time with trains. It is feared the minds will be flooded and compelled to shut down.

As a result of a conference of political leaders at Lexington last night, it is authoritatively stated that Governor Beckham will call an extra session of the Legislature to repeal the Goebel election law. It is thought that Governor Beckham will not wait for the convention in July to act.

The rains have been very heavy in the cotton-growing section of Georgia, and the chances are that much of the crop in Georgia and all the Gulf States, except Texas is damaged to a considerable extent. The fruit crop has been damaged to a great deal by the rains.

The coal dealers of Chattanooga are looking forward to higher prices for coal than were ever known before in that city. The wage contract expires on July 31st, and the miners have demanded an advance of 35 cents on the ton. It is expected they will get about 17½ cents on the ton.

It is estimated that 100,000 people will attend the Roosevelt Rough Riders' reunion at Oklahoma City July 1st, 2nd, 3rd and 4th. Roosevelt will make a speech on the 3rd, the first set speech since his vice-presidential nomination.

Another Hotel May be Built.

There is a plan on foot for the erection of another large hotel in Greensboro. If built, it is understood that it will be one of the largest and most elegant in the State and that it will be run as a resort. Parties possessing ample capital are investigating the matter.

Greensboro is believed to be one of the most desirable places in the South for a resort town. The wonder is that more efforts have not been made to secure this class of business.

THE WORLD'S FOOD SUPPLY

Nut Products Will Feed Three Times the World's People.

NUT CULTURE IS URGED.

Then There Are Many Weeds and Wild Fruits That Can Be Used at a Pinch—Where We Get Our Present Food Supply.

The Department of Agriculture at Washington has been carefully and systematically investigating the food stock in trade of nearly every country on the globe.

Agents who are food students have been sent to China, Peru, Persia, Mexico everywhere to the remotest ends of the earth for the purpose of finding out what the new or neglected food products are, their value as a nutritious diet, and the extent to which they can be used to lengthen the menu of the civilized cook.

Some very interesting and startling facts are being handed in through the reports that cover the food question from New England to the Philippines, from Mexico to the heart of the Mongolian empire. It has been discovered that the nut trees alone could at a pinch feed a population three times as great as the present number of inhabitants.

While a dozen vegetables cover the limit of the variety on the average table, the earth is growing hundreds of kinds that are nutritious, delicious and easy to cultivate.

A Single wild tribe of Western Indians is using forty-one kinds of vegetables which are absolutely unknown, even to the chef who draws a salary as large as that of a United States Senator.

An endless variety of downtrodden weeds can be converted into wholesome, succulent "garden truck." Even the much maligned nettle has the latest qualities of a delicious extremet.

Especially interesting are the facts furnished by the nut specialists. There is no product that requires so little cultivation as the nut, and none is more wholesome as a food staple. An orchard of two thousand trees in California yields every year over 24,000 pounds of hulled nuts. Already the commercial mind has seized upon the enormous profits to accrue from the sale of various preparations of nuts, and at least ten large companies manufacture nothing but nut food.

The government is making a special point of recommending nut culture. In New England the abandoned farms are being planted with nut trees, and the worked-out ground is found to furnish nourishment enough to cause the walunt, butternut and chestnut to flourish abundantly. Farms in nearly every Northwestern state are planting nut trees along with their peaches and pears, and are utilizing the hillsides where nothing else will grow for fruit orchards.

In the past the objection to nuts as food has been that they were hard to digest, but with the new methods of preparing and cooking them, they are rendered as healthful as they are palatable, even in America, where good digestion does notinvariably wait on appetite.

The introduction of new foods is an excellent plan for both the health and commercial prosperity of a nation. Nearly all of what are now regarded as indigenous fruits and vegetables have been imported to us from other lands. Of the food plants now in use only pumpkins and a few grapes, plums and berries were originally found on the soil.

Oats, barley and rye originated in wild forms along the Mediterranean, The first noted species of wheat was brought from Persia. The common garden bean traces its ancestry back of the landing of the Pilgrims to an early aboriginal state in the Andes. The Orient furnished us with melons, cucumbers and onions. Egg plant and tomatoes were discovered in Peru. Quinces, pears, currants and large white grapes in Europe. While the most common of our vegetables, celery, lettuce, cabbage and spinnach, were transplanted from the shores of the Mediterranean.

If these important features of our daily food supply have all found their way to us from foreign lands, it seems but a question of sufficient search throughout the world to increase the store until all possibility of a food famine in future ages is rendered inconceivable.

One point that is being strongly brought out by the government is that many things once considered wild and poisonous, and many that are still looked upon as weeds, are health-giving products and should be ranked as a portion of the reserve food supply. Indeed, the bureau has selected seventeen of the most ordinary weeds and has issued a pamphlet extolling their virtues as available, healthful foods. In the list are found dock, the mashed marigold, mercury, black charlock, commonly held as poisonous; chiccory, pokewood, also regarded as poisonous; purslane, for which the farmer inherits his dislike, and the despised nettle.

A wonderful reserve fund for the human appetite is to be found in the vegetable diet of the Klamath Indians. A novel variety of food forming a menu unknown to civilization is offered in the pulp of the great yellow water lily, which is converted into a farinaceous food; in the weed known as goosefoot, which bears a black seed, which is ground up for loaves and cake, and in the arrowhead, which in the fall develops a starchy white tuber at the end of the roots, not to mention the tubers that resemble beets, turnips and carrots, the nuts that are ground into "coffee" and the flower leaves that furnish fairy-like desserts.

The taming of wild fruits is another branch of the food agent's business. Mr. Augustus Henry, who is authority on Chinese flora, states that there are at least one hundred varieties of fruits growing wild in the interior of China that, if transplanted to another soil and properly cultivated, would prove as important a food supply as our present necessary apple and pear. The Le Conte pear, which has revolutionized pear growing in Southern California, was originally the Chinese san pear, grown solely for ornamental purposes.

BOER FARMERS.

They Spend Their Days in Ease and Content.

With his pipe and tobacco and his constantly replenished cup of so-called coffee the country Boer is content to spend his days in comparative idleness. From his home-made chair of leather thongs on a wooden frame, standing on the verandah of his homestead, he shouts directions to the various "boys" or natives at work in the wagon house or down by the stream. As for himself, particularly if he has grown-up sons, he does little, if any, manual work, and still less mental. He vegetates, ruminates and expectorates in the beatitude of nothing accomplished, nothing done to earn a night's repose.

Very good tobacco is grown in the Transvaal particularly in the Potchefstroom district, and under the Magaliesberg Mountains, near Rustenberg. It is always home cured and dried. At first it strikes one as peculiar, and not altogether palatable, as it is very dry and almost powdery, with an individual flavor which is all its own; but gradually one grows accustomed to it, and eventually one refuses to smoke anything else. It is absolutely pure and healthy. Everybody smokes it all day long, and there is no throat-tickling, no harshness and no heat about it. The farmer produces it for about 18 cents a pound, and it is sent to the town in great circular rolls, weighing about 40 pounds each. When cut and unraveled, it is retailed at 25 and 35 cents a pound, and search the world over you will find nowhere better pipe tobacco.

Among the older Boers it was considered highly indecorous for a woman to allow her hair to be seen, even by her sons or daughters. It was always, night and day, carefully concealed beneath a gigantic sunbonnet or "kappie," which projected far in front of the face, somewhat after the fashion of the old poke bonnet.

The women's dress is almost always black—of a heavy twill material akin to baiize or bombazine. It sticks out straight all the way around like a sort of crinoline.

On an outlying farm, which may be anything from 20 to 200 miles from a town of any sort, the shopping—apart from the quarterly visit to Nachtmaal, or Holy Communion—is conducted through the agency of a "smaus." This is to all intents and purposes, a peddler, who goes from farm to farm with a tray or jewelry and nicknacks in front of him and a pack upon his back, ready to deal in anything and everything that will yield a handsome profit.

A few quaint, home-made medicines are kept at hand in every farmhouse, for the Boer is always falling sick of some more or less imaginary complaint, and wants to be coddled, doctered and physiced with all manner of extraordinary concoctions. A favorite remedy for children's convulsions is dog's blood made hot and mixed with vinegar, while vulture's fat and jackal's liver combined is supposed to cure ague and shivering fever.

The juice of wild aloes is a sort of general all-around tonic, which is given frequently and freely for colds and coughs, and an oinment made from the fat of a viakvark, or wild pig, is always used for sprains or bruises. All these things are "old women's remedies," but whether it is that faith has a good deal to do with a cure, it is quite certain that many of them are extraordinarily efficacious. Some of the prescriptions for preparations of herbs have been handed down to the Boers by native doctors, and are very often successful in mitigating, if not in curing, minor ailments.

Before the advent of the railway in the Transvaal, and even now in those districts into which the iron horse has not yet penetrated, the whole of the transport, or carrying trade, is conducted by kurveyors. Every other Boer farmer's son is, or was, a kurveyor, or carrier. Their only stock in trade was a wagon or 16 oxen. The former, usually built in the Cape Colony at one or other of the famous wagon dorps, is a strong, heavy, well-put-together concern, either half or fully tented, capable of carrying goods to a weight of five or six tons, and drawn by eight spans, of two each, of patient, meek-eyed oxen. These veritable beasts of burden can walk for eight hours a day at a uniform pace of three miles an hour. At the head of the team strides a little, nearly naked, Kaffir boy, called the "voorlooper." He guides the long string of oxen by a short riempje, or strap, attached to the horns of the near side leader. On the wagon sits the kerveyor, flourishing a twenty-foot whip at the end of a long bamboo whip stick. With quite extraordinary dexterity he is able to flick any one of his team on any part of the body, if he thinks that particular ox is lagging a bit, or not doing his share of the pulling. The worst ox of the team, the one which always comes in for the most punishment, is, in a spirit of derision, always called "Engelschman," or Englishman.

Nothing that has ever yet been produced in the way of summer footwear for men will begin to compare for comfort, coolness and durability with shoes made of tan vici kid. If you have never tried shoes made of this material, ask any man who has worn them and you will find him ehthusiastic in their praise. But it is possible to have too much of a good thing and we find ourselves overstocked with certain lines of tan vici shoes. So in order to reduce the surplus, we have cut some fifty pairs of the $3 50, $3.00 and $2.75 grades down to $2.48. You can see the samples of these in our north window the rest of this week and if you are going to need another pair of shoes this summer it will be worth your while to stop and take a look at these. Great Interest Centered in One Life.

Washington Post.

Should the Republican presidential ticket be elected, bringing Mr. Roosevelt within one life of the Chief Magistracy, the interests of the nation will, in an unusual degree, be centered in the preservation of that life. For although many men intellectually inferior to Mr. Roosevelt have been elected to the Vice-Presidential office, we can recall none in that position whose promotion to the only higher place in our system of government would have given so much cause for grave apprehension.

The Same Thing Said Differently.

Charlotte Observer, Wednesday.

An article copied elsewhere in this paper from The Greensboro Telegram of Monday afternoon, pointing out the possibilities of the coming presidental campaign for the Democrats if conservatism shall prevail at Kansas City, might have been written by the same hand that traced the leading editorial in yesterday's Observer. They are upon exactly the same line; indeed, each says the very same thing, except in different terms.

HILL FOR VICE-PRESIDENT.

A Distinct Boom Working up to Force it Upon Him.

Philadelphia Record.

Despite all the protestations of David B. Hill, New York's former Governor and Senator, that he will not be a candidate as Bryan's running mate under any conditions, prominent Democratic leaders at Washington and elsewhere insist that he would be just the sort of man, standing on a conservative financial plank, to unite many Democrats in the East and South, and parts of the West. There is even talk of a stampede at Kansas City to force the second place nomination on Hill, even as the Republican convention in Philadelphia compelled Roosevelt to reconsider. State Chairman Rilling intimates that Pennsylvania would be for Hill for Vice-President, under certain conditions of conservatism and unity. There are also fresh signs of the Hill boom in the South.

QUESTIONS ANSWERED.

Yes, August Flower still has the largest sale of any medicine in the civilized world. Your mothers and grandmothers never thought of using anything else for indigestion or biliousness. Doctors were scarce, and they seldom heard of appendicitis, nervous prostration or heart failure, etc. They used August Flower to clean out the system and stop fermentation of undigested food, regulate the action of the liver, stimulate the nervous and organic action of the system, and that is all they took when feeling dull and bad with headaches and othaches. You only need a few doses of Green's August Flower, in liquid form, to moke you satisfied there is nothing serious the matter with you. For sale by Grissom & Fordham.

Johnston's Sarsaparilla

QUART BOTTLES.

"DANGER IN THE EARTH AND AIR; DANGER EVERYWHERE."

A Wise and Venerable Doctor Talks about Advanced Science.

In a leading hotel, in a great city, a famous and aged physician was conversing. Listening to his wise and sententious discourse, were a group of well dressed men, evidently lawyers, business men and commercial travelers.

My firm belief, is "that medical science is certain yet to show that all diseases without exception are caused by invisible germs which are living organisms. Here is the germ of that terrible disease diphtheria. Here is the bacillus of typhoid fever; and here is the still more dreadful bacillus of tubercle which causes that most destructive of all diseases, consumption. This of that very common and supposed incurable disease, catarrh."

"I wish, Doctor," said the traveling man, "that you would tell us about catarrh. I have had it for years, and I am thoroughly discouraged."

The Doctor answered. "Catarrh, like diphtheria, consumption, typhoid fever, and a host of other diseases, is the result of a microbe invading the blood and attacking specially the mucous membrane. This foul and most disgusting disease is especially prevalent in the United States and it is rare to meet one who is not, or has not been troubled more or less with it. How often is he or she obliged to remain at home from pleasant entertainments, deprive themselves of many intellectual treats, from fear of the disagreeable odor arising from catarrhal affections. In its worst phase, the patient becomes loathsome both to himself and his friends.

"I believe," continued this great physician, "that the true way to heal catarrh is to medicate the blood. This can be done only by powerful alteratives which act as blood purifiers."

Betsy A. Marett, of Manistee, Manistee Co., Mich., writes:

Dear Sirs:—For ten years I was a sufferer from general debility and chronic catarrh. My face was pale as death. I was weak and short of breath. I could hardly walk, I was so dizzy and had a ringing in my head all the time. My hands and feet were always cold. My appetite was very poor. On getting up in the morning, my head swam so I was often obliged to lie down again. I had awful pains in the small of my back. I had a continual feeling of tiredness. My muscular power was almost entirely gone, and I couldn't go half a dozen steps without stopping to rest, and often that much exercise caused me to have a pain in my side. It seemed as though the blood had left my veins. The doctors said my blood had all turned to water. I had given up all hope of ever getting well. I tried the best physicians in the state, but failed to get any relief. My husband got me a bottle of Johnston's Sarsaparilla. I took it, and then I bought another. When these had been used, I was somewhat improved in health. I continued its use, and felt I was growing stronger; my sleep was refreshing, and it seemed as if I could feel new blood moving through my veins. I kept on taking it, and now consider myself a well and rugged woman. I work all the time, and am happy. I am positive that the Sarsaparilla saved my life. The sick headaches I have had since childhood, have disappeared, and my catarrh has almost entirely left me. I cannot be too thankful for what Johnston's Sarsaparilla has done for me. I recommend all women who have sick headaches to use your Sarsaparilla.
